Guide to this report

% positive

Where results are shown as positive percentages (% positive), these are calculated by adding together positive responses ('strongly agree' + 'agree' or 'always' + 'often') and dividing by the number of respondents who answered the question.

Rounding

Results are presented as whole numbers for ease of reading, with rounding performed at the last stage of calculation for maximum accuracy. Values from x.00 to x.49 are rounded down and values from x.50 to x.99 are rounded up. Therefore in some instances, results may not total 100%.

Anonymity

It is best practice not to display the results of groups of respondents to the extent where the anonymity of individuals may be compromised. Results will not be shown where there are less than 10 respondents in a group.

Comparisons with results from previous years

The method of analysing and reporting specific results may be periodically reviewed and revised. Such improvements are applied to current data and that of previous years. For this reason the current report is always the most accurate data source for APS employee census results, including comparisons with time series data.

It is best practice not to display the results of groups of respondents to the extent where the anonymity of individuals may be compromised. Results will not be shown where there are less than 10 respondents in a group.

Comparisons with results from previous years

The method of analysing and reporting specific results may be periodically reviewed and revised. Such improvements are applied to current data and that of previous years. For this reason the current report is always the most accurate data source for APS employee census results, including comparisons with time series data.

Acting on feedback

We used these prompts to ask ATO employees to learn from our employee census results.

Reflecting on the results

Take time to understand your report. Consider your response rate to determine how representative your results are of the views of your colleagues.

Most questions in this report have information about the proportion of colleagues responding positively, neutrally or negatively.

Identify the areas where you are performing well. These will tend to be high results which are notably above any comparative results. Celebrate these results.

Identify areas that need improvement. These will be the lower results, and/or those which are scoring notably below your comparators.

Generally a difference of +/- 5 percentage points is worthy of attention, but the size of the group is important. Changes in small groups can be unreliable

Suggested questions to focus on

Through driver analysis, these key questions have been identified as being important to employees in the ATO and associated with employee engagement. They are not necessarily the questions with the lowest scores. Some will be areas to improve upon and some will be areas to maintain. Develop actions and activities to improve upon these, where possible, to drive higher levels of performance.

What to focus on:

1. 'My agency supports and actively promotes an inclusive workplace culture' is 85% (+1 from 2022 and +5 variance from the APS overall)
2. 'Where appropriate, I am able to take part in decisions that affect my job' is 70% (same as 2022 and +1 variance from the APS overall)
3. 'My SES manager routinely promotes the use of data and evidence to deliver outcomes' is 67% (not included in 2022 and +1 variance from the APS overall)

4. 'Internal communication within my agency is effective' is 66% (same as 2022 and +10 variance from the APS overall)
5. 'My SES manager clearly articulates the direction and priorities for our area' is 71% (+1 from 2022 and +3 variance from the APS overall)
6. 'My SES manager creates an environment that enables us to deliver our best' is 65% (+1 from 2022 and +2 variance from the APS overall).

Summary of key ATO findings from the 2023 APS employee census

The ATO's 2023 Census results reflect a stabilisation, with small or no variances across most index scores from last year (+/-1%). These results suggest the ATO has begun to stabilise at higher than pre-COVID levels, and continues to perform strongly against the APS, large and extra-large agencies.

Employee responses indicated a continued strong alignment with the ATO, its purpose, goals, and its focus on integrity. Additionally 79% of employees would recommend the ATO as a good place to work, representing a continued strong view of our attractiveness as an employer.

Employee views of overall workplace conditions remain strong. While we have seen a decline in the perceptions around remuneration, these were expected and typical given the current environment. Pleasingly, employees continue to maintain a positive sentiment in relation to the non-monetary elements of our Employee Value Proposition.

Results suggest employees continue to want ongoing investment in tools and resources to support their work. This result remains stable compared to last year, and is driven by a focus on technology and digital solutions.

The ATO's continued investment in wellbeing initiatives has resulted in a stabilisation of results around perceptions of wellbeing policies and support. This continues to trend well above APS and other agencies, creating a point of difference for the ATO.

Indicators around workload, burnout, and stress remain consistent with last year and employees have indicated their health continues to be good. However, there is an opportunity to build on these results and improve the experience for employees.

Retention indicators have remained stable compared to last year, however results indicate a strong preference for employees to explore other opportunities within the ATO as they seek promotions, look for opportunities to expand skills and experience, or explore a career change.

SES leadership index results remained stable, above APS, large and extra-large agencies. However we still have the opportunity to grow our leaders and leadership pipeline with a focus on continuous improvement.

The ATO's Census Action Plan will seek to build upon our strengths and address areas of concern with a focus on organisational wide initiatives.

These will be supported by tailored activities where opportunities for improvement exist in more specific areas of the ATO.

Theme 1 Tools, resources and technology

We want to improve staff experience and perception on having the right tools and technology to do their job.
