Preparing to lodge your first return

Before you lodge a tax return each income year you need to work out if you need to lodge a tax return. If you don't need to lodge, you still need to lodge a non-lodgment advice.

You should also check what's new for individuals for updates and changes this tax time.

To lodge your tax return make sure you have all your information available, including:

- your income statement or payment summary – you'll need to wait until your employer marks your income statement as tax ready
- receipts or statements for expenses you are claiming as deductions
- private health insurance statement.

If you lodge your tax return online using 'myTax', we'll pre-fill some information for you. To lodge online you will need to create a myGov account and link it to the ATO.

How to lodge your tax return

Most individuals who earn income and had tax withheld from that income need to lodge a tax return. If you need to lodge you can choose how you prepare and lodge your tax return.

You can choose to lodge your tax return:

- online with myTax – prepare and lodge your own tax return online. It's the quick, safe and secure way to lodge, most process in 2 weeks
- with a registered tax agent – use a registered tax agent to prepare and lodge your tax return, they are the only people that can charge a fee
- as a paper tax return – you can use the paper tax return to lodge your tax return by mail, most refunds issue within 50 business days.

If you need help to prepare and lodge your tax return, you may be eligible for our free Tax Help program. This is a service to help eligible individuals with simple tax affairs.

Tax return due date

If you're preparing and lodging your own tax return, you have from 1 July to 31 October to lodge. If you lodge online we'll pre-fill most of your information in your tax return for you. You'll be less likely to leave something out.

After you lodge

If you lodge online, most tax returns process within 2 weeks.

If you lodge by paper, tax returns can take up to 10 weeks (50 business days). If your tax return requires manual checks, it may take longer to process.

The quickest and easiest way to check the progress of your tax return is by using our self-help services.

Once we process your tax return, we'll send you your notice of assessment. If you have a tax debt, check our advice on why you may receive a tax bill.

How we get information for pre-fill

Pre-fill can make doing your tax return easier and more accurate. You can also upload your records from the 'myDeductions tool' into your tax return. Pre-fill information comes from:

- employers, superannuation funds and government agencies
- health funds, banks and share registries
- records you upload to the myDeductions tool in the ATO app
- our systems, including details from your previous tax returns and current tax account status.

Before you can make changes in myTax to certain data that we have high confidence in, you'll be required to add an adjustment reason:

- from 1 July 2022, this applies to bank interest data for single account holders
- from 1 July 2024, this applies to
  - bank interest data for both single and joint account holders
  - pension and allowance data from government agencies.

How much information we can pre-fill depends on when we receive the information from those organisations and when you lodge your tax return.

Pre-fill information is usually available within a couple of days of it being reported to us.

Most information is sent to us by late July, but many organisations send us their information much earlier.

You can use the pre-fill availability page to check if we've received information from the organisations that you receive income from.

You can also start your myTax return to see what pre-fill information is ready.

myDeductions

In the ATO app, myDeductions is a record-keeping tool that makes it easier for you to keep track of your records digitally.

Watch: A quick demonstration of myDeductions.

This video shows how easy it is to keep your records using myDeductions.

Media: A quick demonstration of myDeductions https://tv.ato.gov.au/ato-tv/media?v=bd1bdiubgosm84 (Duration: 1:22)

Sole traders with simple affairs can also use it to help keep track of their business income and expenses.

You can upload your completed records directly to myTax from the myDeductions tool in the ATO app. If you use a registered tax agent, you can email your records directly to them.

The myDeductions tool allows you to keep your records digitally in one place during the income year for:

- all work-related expenses (including motor vehicle trips)
- interest and dividend deductions
- gifts or donations
- costs of managing tax affairs
- sole trader expenses and business income
- other deductions.

Before you finalise your tax return

Always check your pre-fill information against your own records. You should correct the pre-filled information if you have more up-to-date information.

If you believe the pre-fill information is wrong, contact the organisation that provided the information to resolve any differences before lodging your tax return.

For example, if we pre-fill $24 interest from your bank but your own records show you only received $12, query this with your bank – it's possible they recorded your account in one name, when it's actually a joint account.

If there is an error in the organisation's records, they must send us the correct information.

If we identify data that doesn't match, we may seek clarification from you.

About our pre-fill information

To save you time and to help you get your tax return right, we partially complete your tax return with financial information we receive from third parties. This includes health funds, financial institutions, employers, and government agencies.

Pre-fill data is available from 1 July, with most data finalised by the end of July. Some data is received later, like partnership or trust distributions and Taxable payments annual report (TPAR) data.

You can check if we've received your information by starting your tax return in myTax or going to a registered tax agent.

To check if your pre-fill information is available before starting your tax return follow the links below:

- Government agency data
- Health fund data
- Financial institution data
- Company data.

We don't publish pre-fill information from employers in this content. Check your pre-fill information includes income from your employers and all other sources when you start your tax return.

How to use pre-fill information

Pre-fill information automatically loads into your tax return if you prepare and lodge using myTax or through a registered tax agent. If you believe there is an error in your pre-fill information, contact the organisation who provides the information. Ensure the organisation sends any corrections through to us.

All you have to do is review the information we pre-fill and add any missing details.

Don't rely solely on pre-fill information, it may be incomplete if:

- an organisation hasn't supplied data yet
- we couldn't match the information to your record
- the information didn't pass all data quality checks.

If you change the pre-fill data when you lodge your tax return, we may:

- request you to enter a reason to explain why the pre-fill data is incorrect
- amend your tax return if we have high confidence in the data we've received
- contact you to discuss why your information is different to the pre-fill data.

If you disagree with the decision we've made, you can contact us to request a review or alternatively lodge an objection after you receive your notice of assessment.

Lodge with a registered tax agent

Use a registered tax agent to prepare and lodge your tax return, they are the only people that can charge a fee.

Last updated 24 April 2026

Choosing a tax agent

A tax agent is a qualified professional who can help you prepare and lodge your tax return. You can engage the services of a tax agent either online or face-to-face.

Tax agents must be registered with the Tax Practitioners Board (TPB). You can find a registered tax agent or check whether a person is registered by visiting the TPB website.

Using a registered tax agent will provide you with consumer protection as the TPB ensures they:

- meet and maintain the required standard of qualifications and experience
- comply with the Code of Professional Conduct.

When choosing an agent, you should discuss the service they can provide so you both know what to expect.

You can use the myDeductions tool in the ATO app to easily keep copies of your records and share these with your tax agent. You are responsible for the tax records you provide your tax agent.

The myDeductions record-keeping tool allows both individuals and sole traders to keep track of:

- general expenses, such as gifts and donations made to a deductible gift recipient
- worked-related and sole-trader deductions (and business income).

You can either upload your records or email them to your tax agent.

Registered tax agent due dates for tax returns

Most registered tax agents have a special lodgment program and can lodge returns for their clients after the usual 31 October deadline. The due date for your tax return will depend on your personal situation as well as when you engage your tax agent. You should contact your tax agent for advice about your situation.

If you're using a tax agent for the first time, or using a different tax agent, you should contact them before 31 October to be part of their lodgment program.

Lodging prior year tax returns

If you haven't lodged a tax return for a prior income year, it's important to get up to date as soon as possible. Getting your lodgment up to date may help you to avoid interest accruing on any tax debts and late lodgment penalties.

Your tax agent can also prepare and lodge prior year tax returns for you.

Lodge your tax return before leaving Australia

Find out if you can lodge your tax return early (by paper) if you are leaving Australia permanently.

Last updated 15 June 2026

Eligibility to lodge an early tax return

If you leave Australia permanently and it is before the end of the income year (30 June), you may be able to lodge your tax return early.

You'll need to use the paper tax return form to lodge early. Processing for early lodgments is 50 business days.

We only accept early lodgment of tax returns for individuals before the end of the income year if you are either:

- a foreign resident for tax purposes and you
  - are leaving Australia permanently
  - will no longer derive Australian-sourced income (other than interest, dividend and royalty income)
- an Australian resident for tax purposes and you
  - are leaving Australia
  - are ceasing to be an Australian resident for tax purposes
  - will no longer derive Australian-sourced income (other than interest, dividend and royalty income).

You'll need to lodge your tax return during the normal lodgment period (1 July to 31 October) if you:

- are not leaving Australia permanently
- will receive Australian-sourced income (other than interest, dividends and royalties) after leaving Australia
- have one of the following:
  - Higher Education Loan Program (HELP) debt
  - Australian Apprenticeship Support Loan (AASL) debt
  - Vocational education and training (VET) Student Loan debt.

How to lodge an early tax return

If you meet the eligibility requirements outlined above, you'll need to:

- Refer to the current individual tax return instructions.

- Collect a payment summary from each of your employers plus details of other income you earned while in Australia. Payslips aren't sufficient as they may not contain final payment details.
- If your employer reports to us through Single Touch Payroll your payment, tax and super information will be available as an income statement online in myGov.
- Contact us to discuss general requirements such as the payment of any outstanding debts and lodgment of tax returns for earlier years. You'll need your tax file number and other identifying information such as your previous year's notice of assessment to establish proof of identity.
- Consider any recent legislative changes that may impact on your circumstances when preparing your early tax return.
- Complete your paper tax return for individuals and mark the relevant year in bold on the front of the tax return. For example, if you are using Individual tax return instructions 2025 to complete your return for the 2026–27 income year, cross out the 2025 and mark the tax return 2026.

We'll calculate your entitlement to the low income tax offset. You don't need to do anything to make this happen.

Post your completed tax return to the address on the paper form.

Your notice of assessment will be sent to the postal address you write in your tax return.

If you think your circumstances put you under serious financial hardship review your eligibility to Other lodgment options

If you link the ATO to your myGov account you can lodge your tax return online with myTax from overseas.

To access myGov you will need to ensure you have sign in options you can access from overseas. You'll also need an Australian bank account you can use to receive any refund amounts.

Residency status

As an Australian resident travelling or living overseas, you may continue to be an Australian resident while you're overseas.

Your residency status helps you work out if you need to lodge a tax return in Australia and your lodgment options.

Check your tax residency, if you're unsure.

If you're a foreign or temporary resident or working holiday maker returning to your home country or have left Australia, check how to lodge your tax return.

When to lodge your tax return

You'll need to lodge your tax return within the normal lodgment period 1 July to 31 October.

If you lodge with a registered tax agent you may have a longer due date under their lodgment program.

Lodgment options for Australian residents overseas

The easiest way to lodge your tax return from overseas is to lodge your tax return online with myTax.

To lodge online you need a myGov account with an active link to the ATO.

If you don't have a myGov account, it's easy to create an account and link it to the ATO.

You'll need to:

- update your myGov sign in settings to ensure you have access from overseas – we recommend using a Digital ID, such as myID
- have an Australian bank account you can use to receive any refund amounts.

Alternatively, you can:

- lodge your tax return with a registered tax agent
- lodge a paper tax return
- lodge your tax return before leaving Australia.

You can also have a friend or family member lodge a tax return on your behalf. You'll need to complete a power of attorney if the friend or family member signs the tax return on your behalf.

Lodge a prior year tax return

Find out how to lodge if you still need to lodge a tax return for a prior year.

Last updated 24 April 2026

Lodgment options

If you still need to lodge a tax return for a prior income year, it's important to get up to date as soon as possible to reduce the risk of penalties and interest.

If you're not sure if you need to lodge a return, go to How to work out if you need to lodge a tax return.

If you need to lodge a tax return for a prior year, you have 3 options:

- lodge your tax return online with myTax
- lodge with a registered tax agent
- lodge a paper tax return.

Online lodgment availability

You can lodge prior year tax returns online with myTax from 2016.

You may also be able to lodge online for 2014 and 2015, if you're eligible. Check the:

- eligibility for 2015
- eligibility for 2014.

For 2013 and earlier, online lodgment for tax returns isn't available.

If you are not eligible to use myTax 2014 or 2015 or want to lodge for 2013 and earlier, you will need to:

- lodge with a registered tax agent
- lodge a paper tax return.

If you don't need to lodge

You usually still need to tell us if you don't need to lodge a tax return by lodging a non-lodgment advice. The quickest way is using our online services through myGov.

You can submit a non-lodgment advice online for income years dating back to 2000.

You can also lodge prior year non-lodgment advice forms by paper.

If you're having difficulties meeting your tax obligations, contact us as soon as possible to discuss your circumstances.

Lodge a non-lodgment advice

Check what you need to do if you don't need to lodge a tax return.

Last updated 31 August 2026

When you don't need to lodge

You usually don't need to lodge a tax return where:

- your income is under the tax-free threshold ($18,200)
- no tax has been withheld from that income.

However, there are certain circumstances which require you to lodge even where the above applies to you.

Use one of our Do I need to lodge a tax return? tools to work out if you need to lodge a tax return.

If you work out that you don't need to lodge a tax return, let us know so we don't send you reminders. You can complete a non-lodgment advice online for most income years.

How to lodge the non-lodgment advice

If you work out that you don't need to lodge a tax return, tell us by lodging a non-lodgment advice (also known as a return not necessary).

You can complete either:

- Non-lodgment advice through ATO online services – you'll first need to sign in to myGov
  - select ATO
  - from the menu select Tax
  - from the drop-down menu select Lodgments
  - select Non-lodgment advice
- Non-lodgment advice form – download and print the form and lodge by mail.

You can submit a non-lodgment advice online for income years dating back to 2000.

You can also tell us that you'll no longer need to lodge a return for this income year and future years by following the steps above.

Circumstances affecting non-lodgment

The following are common circumstances that mean you need to lodge a tax return:

- Tax withheld from income under the tax-free threshold
- Living overseas with study and training support loans
- Centrelink clients
- Child support (paying or receiving parent)
- Active ABN, pay as you go withholding or instalments
- Franking credits refund

Tax withheld from income under the tax-free threshold

If you earn less than the tax-free threshold ($18,200) and pay tax of $1 or more, you can get a refund of the tax amounts. You need to lodge a tax return to receive a refund of these amounts.

If you're a part year Australian resident, your tax-free threshold will be less than $18,200.

Use the Do I need to lodge a tax return? tools to work out if you need to lodge a tax return.

If you're a foreign resident with $1 or more of Australian taxable income, you must lodge a tax return.

Living overseas with study and training support loans

If you live outside of Australia and have a Higher Education Loan Program (HELP), VET Student Loan (VSL) or Australian Apprenticeship Support Loan (AASL) debt owing to the Australian government, you have the same repayment obligations for these loans as people who live in Australia. These repayment obligations must be met.

If you earn income, you must report your worldwide income by lodging online or using a registered Australian tax agent.

Centrelink clients

If you receive family assistance payments (such as Family Tax Benefit or Child Care Subsidy), you need to provide your family income to Centrelink.

To meet your tax obligations, you need to complete the following processes with us depending on your circumstances:

- lodge an income tax return (if required)
- lodge a non-lodgment advice with us.

You'll also need to advise Centrelink if you and your spouse don't need to lodge a tax return (if applicable) and confirm income for you and your spouse. You can use either your Centrelink online account or Express Plus Centrelink mobile app to provide this information.

If you're receiving Child Care Subsidy, Centrelink require income for any spouse you had during the year and have separated from. If you have concerns about confirming their income, phone the Centrelink Families line to discuss options.

Child support (paying or receiving parent)

If you were the paying or receiving parent under a child support assessment, you must lodge a tax return unless both of the following apply:

- you receive government benefits for the entire income year
- your income was less than $31,047 in the 2025–26 income tax year.

You will also need to provide your income details directly to Services Australia using your Child Support online account in myGov.

Active ABN, pay as you go withholding or instalments

You will not be able to complete a non-lodgment advice if our records show that during the income year, you:

- had an active ABN
- report pay as you go withholding
- had pay as you go instalments.

Active ABN options

If you have an active ABN you need to lodge a tax return, this may be a nil ($0) tax return. You will need to do this whether you have either:

- ceased trading
- just commenced trading.

If you have ceased trading, you'll also need to cancel your business registrations from the date you ceased trading. You must meet all your lodgment and payment obligations prior to cancelling your ABN.

Franking credits refund

If you receive franking credits on your dividends and aren't required to lodge a tax return, you can still apply for a refund of your franking credits.
