Goods and Services Tax Determination

Goods and services tax: when will the requirement to hold a tax invoice or adjustment note be waived as a result of a court or tribunal decision?

Preamble

This document is a ruling for the purposes of section 37 of the Taxation Administration Act 1953. You can rely on the information presented in this document which provides advice on the operation of the GST system.

1. The requirement for a tax invoice will be waived in the circumstances described in a legislative determination made by the Commissioner under subsection 29-10(3) of the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999 (the GST Act). The requirement for an adjustment note will be waived in the circumstances described in a legislative determination made by the Commissioner under subsection 29-20(3) of the GST Act. These determinations are the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999 Waiver of Tax Invoice Requirement Determination (No. 1) 2004 – Decision of a Court or Tribunal and the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999 Waiver of Adjustment Note Requirement Determination (No. 1) 2004 – Decision of a Court or Tribunal. Copies of the determinations are attached as Schedules to this ruling.

2. Tax invoices and adjustment notes are key integrity measures under the GST system. In a transaction based tax such as the GST, tax invoices and adjustment notes form an essential part of the audit trail and are important indicators that taxable supplies and adjustment events have occurred. For this reason, subject to specific exceptions,¹ a recipient entitled to an input tax credit in relation to a taxable supply is required to hold a tax invoice to claim the input tax credit.² Also for this reason, subject to specific exceptions,³ a supplier or a recipient of a supply entitled to a decreasing adjustment will have to hold an adjustment note to be able to claim the decreasing adjustment.⁴ Thus it is important that those documents contain the required information⁵ and are issued in a timely manner.

¹ Apart from circumstances of a kind for which the Commissioner has made a legislative determination under subsection 29-10(3), a recipient is not required to hold a tax invoice for low value ($50 or less) acquisitions (subsection 29-80(1)). See also exceptions for second hand goods in section 66-17 of the GST Act and the exception for 'reverse charged' supplies in subsection 83-35(3) of the GST Act. In the case of a creditable acquisition made through an agent, the principal is not required to hold a tax invoice if it is held by the agent (section 153-5 of the GST Act). The tax invoice requirements do not apply in relation to creditable importations (section 29-15 of the GST Act).

² Subsection 29-10(3) of the GST Act.

³ Apart from circumstances of a kind for which the Commissioner has made a legislative determination under subsection 29-20(3), an adjustment note is not required for a decreasing adjustment that does not exceed $50 (subsection 29-80(2)). See also exceptions for second hand goods in section 66-17 of the GST Act. In the

3. A supplier of a taxable supply is obliged to issue a tax invoice or adjustment note within 28 days after a request by the recipient.⁶ If a tax invoice or adjustment note has not been provided by the supplier, the recipient should make an attempt to obtain one by contacting the supplier and requesting the tax invoice or adjustment note. A written request made to the supplier, while not required by the GST Act, would provide clear evidence of the attempt. Where a recipient claims an input tax credit or decreasing adjustment and a tax invoice or adjustment note was not held at the time of lodging the relevant Business Activity Statement (the 'BAS'), the recipient may be making a statement that is false or misleading in a material particular and be liable to an administrative penalty.⁷

4. There may be reasons for the supplier refusing to give a tax invoice. For instance the supplier may have a genuine belief that a taxable supply has not been made and there is no obligation to issue a tax invoice or adjustment note. This may occur where the supplier believes the supply is GST-free,⁸ input taxed,⁹ or not taxable because the supplier is not registered and is not required to be registered.¹⁰ The supplier may believe the supply is a supply of real property under the margin scheme.¹¹ In other cases the supplier may not be contactable, may have ceased business or will not give the tax invoice or adjustment note for some other reason.

5. Where the recipient believes that a creditable acquisition has been made, or a decreasing adjustment arises from an adjustment event, and is unable to obtain a tax invoice or adjustment note, as appropriate, the recipient should request that the Commissioner exercise the discretion in subsection 29-70(1) or subsection 29-75(1) to treat as a tax invoice or adjustment note a document that is not a tax invoice or adjustment note respectively.

case of supplies made by or to a principal through an agent, the principal is not required to hold an adjustment note if it is held by the agent (section 153-10 of the GST Act).

⁴ Subsection 29-20(3) of the GST Act.

⁵ For tax invoices see subsection 29-70(1) of the GST Act and regulation 29-70.01 of the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Regulations 1999. For adjustment notes see subsection 29-75(1) of the GST Act and A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Adjustment Note Information Requirements Determination (No. 1) 2000.

⁶ Subsections 29-70(2) and 29-75(2) of the GST Act. Even if the recipient has not requested an adjustment note, suppliers are required to issue one within 28 days after becoming aware of the adjustment if they had issued a tax invoice (or one had been requested). See exceptions for low value transactions in subsections 29-80(1) and 29-80(2), for supplies under the margin scheme in subsection 75-30(1) and for reverse charged supplies in subsection 83-35(1). Under section 288-45 of Schedule 1 to the Taxation Administration Act 1953 (the TAA), a supplier who fails to issue a tax invoice or adjustment note as required by subsections 29-70(2) and 29-75(2) respectively is liable to an administrative penalty.

⁷ Subdivision 284-B of Schedule 1 to the TAA.

⁸ For example, under the transitional provisions (section 13 of the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax Transition) Act 1999) or the going concern provisions (section 38-325 of the GST Act).

⁹ For example, a sale of residential premises under subsection 40-65(1) of the GST Act.

¹⁰ Section 23-5 of the GST Act.

¹¹ Section 75-30 of the GST Act.

6. In certain cases the Commissioner will not exercise the discretion in subsection 29-70(1) or subsection 29-75(1) because he believes the supplier has not made a taxable supply, that the recipient has not made a creditable acquisition or that an adjustment event has not arisen.¹² In other cases a recipient may have claimed an input tax credit or decreasing adjustment without a valid tax invoice or adjustment note and an assessment has been made disallowing the claim. The Taxation Administration Act 1953 (the TAA) provides a mechanism for the recipient to challenge the Commissioner's view. If an assessment of net amount for the relevant tax period has not already been made, the recipient will need to request the assessment be made.¹³ The recipient can object against the assessment in accordance with the provisions of Part IVC of the TAA.¹⁴

7. Where the Commissioner disallows the objection, the recipient can, under Part IVC of the TAA, apply to the Administrative Appeals Tribunal (including the Small Taxation Claims Tribunal if eligible) (the Tribunal) for review of the objection decision or appeal to the Federal Court against the decision.

8. The recipient may attempt to challenge the Commissioner's view by way of declaratory proceedings rather than under Part IVC of the TAA. However, where an assessment of net amount has been made, the Commissioner will oppose an application for declaratory relief on the basis that section 59 of the TAA applies. The effect of section 59 is that where an assessment of net amount has been made, and the notice of assessment is produced by the Commissioner, the only avenue for challenging the correctness of the assessment is by the procedures under Part IVC of the TAA.¹⁵

9. As mentioned in paragraph 2 above, tax invoices and adjustment notes are vital documents for the integrity of the GST system. However, where the Commissioner, in making the objection decision, decided that the recipient has not made a creditable acquisition or does not have a decreasing adjustment, but the Court or Tribunal later decides the recipient is entitled to an input tax credit or a decreasing adjustment, it would be unnecessarily onerous to insist on the recipient seeking a tax invoice or adjustment note from the supplier where one is not already held by the recipient. Also in these circumstances the Commissioner should not refuse to exercise the discretions in subsections 29-70(1) or 29-75(1).

10. Therefore, under the attached determinations, where the Commissioner, in making the objection decision, decided that the recipient has not made a creditable acquisition or does not have a decreasing adjustment but the Court or Tribunal finds that the recipient is entitled to the input tax credit, or that a decreasing adjustment has arisen from an adjustment event, the recipient will not be required to have held a tax invoice or adjustment note respectively at the time the BAS was lodged. For the attached determinations to apply

¹² Decisions in relation to the exercise of these discretions are not reviewable GST decisions under subsection 62(2) of the Taxation Administration Act (TAA).

¹³ Section 23 of the TAA requires the Commissioner to make an assessment if requested, subject to the request being made within the time limits in subsection 23(2).

¹⁴ The making of an assessment under section 22 is a reviewable indirect tax decision under subsection 62(3) of the TAA. Subsection 62(1) of the TAA gives a right of objection in the manner set out in Part IVC of the TAA.

¹⁵ Section 59 of the TAA is equivalent to subsection 177(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 which was considered in F J Bloemen Pty Ltd v. FCT (1981) 147 CLR 360 at 373 - 375. See also McAndrew v. FCT (1956) 98 CLR 263; FCT v. Dalco (1990) 168 CLR 614 and DCT v. Richard Walter Pty Ltd (1995) 183 CLR 168.

the matter must have been finally decided. That is, the period in which an appeal may be lodged must have expired without an appeal being lodged.

11. Where the determinations apply, the input tax credit or the decreasing adjustment will be attributable in accordance with subsection 29-10(1) or (2) or in accordance with subsection 29-20(1) or (2), respectively.

12. The attached determinations will not apply where an order has been made by the Court under the Administrative Decisions (Judicial Review) Act 1977 (ADJRA). The ADJRA does not permit the Court to make a finding as to whether the recipient has made a creditable acquisition and is entitled to an input tax credit, or has a decreasing adjustment. In ADJRA proceedings the Court is judicially reviewing an administrative decision by the Commissioner made under an enactment. A decision by the Commissioner that a creditable acquisition has not been made or that the recipient is not entitled to an input tax credit, or to a decreasing adjustment, is not able to be reviewed on its merits in such a review. The determinations only apply where the Court or Tribunal has found that the recipient made a creditable acquisition and is entitled to an input tax credit, or to a decreasing adjustment.

13. A tax invoice or adjustment note will still be required where the Commissioner reaches a settlement with the recipient and as a result:

- consent orders are made by the Court, or
- the Tribunal makes a decision in accordance with terms agreed to by the parties, without the Court or Tribunal having yet made a finding that the recipient has made a creditable acquisition and is entitled to an input tax credit or to a decreasing adjustment.

14. When negotiating the terms of the proposed consent order it will be necessary to consider:

- whether the Commissioner will need to exercise the discretion under subsections 29-70(1) or 29-75(1);
- if the Commissioner will need to exercise the discretion, the operation of paragraphs 29-10(3)(b) or 29-20(3)(d), that is, whether the document to be treated as a tax invoice or adjustment note was held at the time the BAS for the tax period under review was lodged; and
- the operation of subsection 29-10(4), that is, whether a revised BAS will need to be lodged if the input tax credit was not previously claimed.

For example, in settling the terms of the consent order, the Commissioner may decide that it is not appropriate to exercise the discretion under subsections 29-70(1) or 29-75(1) in respect of a document held by the recipient at the time the BAS for the tax period under review was lodged. Instead the Commissioner may agree to a consent order that provides for the discretion to be exercised in respect of a document that was not held by the recipient until later.¹⁶

¹⁶ This may be the case where the recipient has claimed the input tax credit in the knowledge that a tax invoice was not held and it is appropriate to maintain the General Interest Charge (GIC).

15. The input tax credit is attributable to the tax period for which the BAS was lodged at the time of holding the document. If the BAS has already been lodged for that period subsection 29-10(4) requires that an amended BAS be lodged to claim the input tax credit.

Example

16. Jiesi acquired equipment from Alex, a sole trader, for use in her GST-registered business. Jiesi requested a tax invoice from Alex but he did not provide one. Jiesi has learnt that Alex travelled overseas shortly after supplying the equipment and has not returned.

17. Had Jiesi held a tax invoice, the input tax credit would have been attributed to the tax period in which payment for the equipment occurred. She requested that the Commissioner exercise the discretion in subsection 29-70(1) in respect of another document held at the time she lodged her BAS. The Commissioner refused to exercise the discretion, taking the view that the supply was not taxable. Alex was not registered for GST and the Commissioner is not satisfied that he was required to be registered.

18. Under section 23 of the TAA Jiesi requested that an assessment be made of her net amount for the tax period in which payment for the equipment occurred. The Commissioner made an assessment for the relevant tax period and Jiesi objected against the assessment under Part IVC of the TAA. The Commissioner disallowed the objection and Jiesi appealed to the Federal Court.

19. The Court found that Alex had made a taxable supply and consequently that Jiesi had made a creditable acquisition and is entitled to the input tax credit. In view of the Court's decision, Jiesi does not need to obtain a tax invoice from Alex or request that the Commissioner exercise the discretion in subsection 29-70(1) because of the Commissioner's determination under subsection 29-10(3); 'A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999 Waiver of Tax Invoice Requirement Determination (No. 1) 2004 - Decision of a Court or Tribunal'.

20. If no appeal is lodged, the Commissioner will amend Jiesi's assessment for the tax period to give effect to the Court's decision.

Date of Effect

21. This Determination explains our view of the law as it applied from 1 July 2000. You can rely upon this Determination on and from its date of issue for the purposes of section 37 of the Taxation Administration Act 1953. Goods and Services Tax Ruling GSTR 1999/1 explains the GST rulings system and our view of when you can rely on our interpretation of the law in GST public and private rulings.

22. If this Determination conflicts with a previous private ruling that you have obtained, this public ruling prevails. However, if you have relied on a private ruling, you are protected in respect of what you have done up to the date of issue of this public ruling. This means that if you have underpaid an amount of GST, you are not liable for the shortfall prior to the date of issue of this later ruling. Similarly, you are not liable to repay an amount overpaid by the Commissioner as a refund.

Schedule 1COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIAA NEW TAX SYSTEM (GOODS AND SERVICES TAX) ACT 1999DETERMINATION

Under subsection 29-10(3) of the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999 I make the following determination:

Citation

1. This determination is the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999 Waiver of Tax Invoice Requirement Determination (No. 1) 2004 – Decision of a Court or Tribunal.

Commencement

2. This determination commences on the date the A New Tax System (Goods and Services Tax) Act 1999 commenced.

Circumstances where the requirement for a tax invoice does not apply

3. The circumstances set out in clause 4 are circumstances in which the requirement for a tax invoice under subsection 29-10(3) of the Act does not apply.

4. The circumstances are that all the following requirements are satisfied:

- (a) (i) under Part IVC of the Taxation Administration Act 1953 you have applied to the Tribunal for review of an objection decision or appealed against an objection decision to a Court, and in making the objection decision the Commissioner decided that you have not made a creditable acquisition, and the grounds of the objection include that you have made a creditable acquisition and are entitled to an input tax credit; or
 - (ii) you have sought declaratory orders from a Court that you have made a creditable acquisition and are entitled to an input tax credit; or
 - (iii) you or the Commissioner has appealed against a decision of the Tribunal or Court that resulted from a proceeding covered by clause 4(a)(i) or appealed against a decision of the Court that resulted from a proceeding covered by clause 4(a)(ii); and
- (b) the Court or Tribunal has found that you have made a creditable acquisition and are entitled to an input tax credit.

Situations where a tax invoice is still required

5. However, clause 3 does not apply in any of the following circumstances:

- (a) a settlement occurs before the Court or Tribunal gives a decision; or
- (b) the Court or Tribunal dismisses the application without proceeding to determine the matter; or
- (c) the Court or Tribunal makes a decision in accordance with terms agreed to by the parties without making a finding that you have made a creditable acquisition and are entitled to an input tax credit; or
- (d) the Court remits the decision to the Tribunal, or the Court or Tribunal remits the decision to the Commissioner, for reconsideration; or
- (e) the Court makes an order under the Administrative Decisions (Judicial Review) Act 1977; or
- (f) any other circumstance in which the Court or Tribunal does not make a finding as to whether you have made a creditable acquisition and are entitled to an input tax credit; or
- (g) the period within which an appeal against the Court or Tribunal decision may be lodged has not expired or an appeal has been lodged and the Court has not found that you have made a creditable acquisition and are entitled to an input tax credit.
