

TD 2004/75 - Income tax: are payments to a volunteer respite carer to cover expenses of providing respite care for a disabled person assessable income?

 This cover sheet is provided for information only. It does not form part of TD 2004/75 - Income tax: are payments to a volunteer respite carer to cover expenses of providing respite care for a disabled person assessable income?

 This ruling contains references to repealed provisions, some of which may have been rewritten. The ruling still has effect. Paragraph 32 in TR 2006/10 provides further guidance on the status and binding effect of public rulings where the law has been repealed or repealed and rewritten. The legislative references at the end of the ruling indicate the repealed provisions and, where applicable, the rewritten provisions.

 This document has changed over time. This is a consolidated version of the ruling which was published on 29 November 2006

Taxation Determination

Income tax: are payments to a volunteer respite carer to cover expenses of providing respite care for a disabled person assessable income?

Preamble

The number, subject heading, date of effect and paragraphs 1 to 9 of this document are a 'public ruling' for the purposes of Part IVAAA of the Taxation Administration Act 1953 and are legally binding on the Commissioner.

1. No. Payments to a volunteer respite carer to cover expenses of providing respite care for a disabled person are not assessable income.
2. Assessable income includes ordinary income under section 6-5 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 (ITAA 1997) and statutory income under paragraph 26(e) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 (ITAA 1936).
3. Relevant factors in determining whether a payment is ordinary income include whether the payment is for services rendered, such as from personal services, and the character of the payment in the hands of the recipient.
4. Income Tax Ruling IT 2639 describes income from personal services as 'income that an individual earns predominantly as a direct reward for his or her personal efforts, for example, the provision of services, exercise of skills or the application of labour'.
5. Volunteer respite carers are not paid any amount for their time or to reward them for any personal services they provide. They are volunteering their time without any expectation of monetary reward. Nor are they providing the care as an employee, carrying on a business of respite care or being paid any amount to compensate for the loss of other income. The payments therefore do not have the characteristics of ordinary income and so are not assessable under section 6-5 of the ITAA 1997.
6. Paragraph 26(e) of the ITAA 1936 includes as statutory income allowances gratuities, compensations, benefits, and premiums paid in respect of employment or services rendered by a person.
7. Payments to volunteer respite carers are considered to be in the nature of a reimbursement of expenses of providing respite care to a disabled person. They are not paid as an allowance or as any of the other kinds of payments in respect of employment or services rendered that are covered by paragraph 26(e) of the ITAA 1936. The payments are therefore not assessable income under paragraph 26(e).

TD 2004/75

Example

8. Peter provides volunteer respite care for a child with disabilities for one weekend (Friday evening to Monday morning) per month. Peter is paid an amount of $350 for the weekend by an organisation that arranges respite care for disabled persons. The payment is intended to cover expenses incurred in providing the respite care including food and drink, laundry, recreation activities and transport. The payment is considered to be in the nature of a reimbursement of expenses and therefore is not included in Peter's assessable income.

Date of effect

9. This Determination applies to years of income commencing both before and after its date of issue. However, the Determination does not apply to taxpayers to the extent that it conflicts with the terms of settlement of a dispute agreed to before the date of issue of the Determination (see paragraphs 21 and 22 of Taxation Ruling TR 92/20).
