TAXATION RULING TR 92/5

This public ruling alters Taxation Ruling TR 92/5 as set out below.

'However, gold fees paid after 1 January 1991 will not be deductible where they relate to loans drawn before 1 January 1991.'

3. Paragraph 26 should be amended by replacing the words:

TAXATION RULING TR 92/5

6. Paragraph 34 should be amended by replacing the words:

'paragraph 4'
with:
'paragraphs 3 and 4'

DATE OF EFFECT

7. If a taxpayer:

- (a) has entered into a gold loan contract or a transaction under such a contract in the period between the date of issue of TR 92/5 and the date of issue of this Erratum; and
- (b) would be adversely effected by the amendments set out in paragraphs 1, 3 and 4 above;

8. The amendments set out in paragraphs 2, 5 and 6 above, to the extent that they are beneficial to taxpayers, will apply to all contracts and transactions regardless of whether they were entered into before or after the date of issue of this erratum. To the extent that the amendments in those paragraphs are not beneficial to taxpayers, the original paragraphs will apply as if the amendments had not been made.

EXPLANATION

9. Taxation Ruling TR 92/5 considers gold loans, from the viewpoint of gold producers, to involve a series of acquisitions (by purchase or production) and disposals of trading stock.

10. Some phrases included in the Ruling suggested that the deduction, by way of reduction in trading stock on hand, for gold fees was necessarily at spot price of gold at the time of payment. This will only be correct when that is the value that has been adopted for trading stock purposes. When a lower value has been adopted, the reduction in trading stock is, of course, at that lower value.

11. Gold producers are not entitled to a greater deduction (by reduction of their trading stock on hand) than the value they have adopted for that trading stock, used to pay a gold fee. Commonly, gold producers have valued trading stock at market value; but lower values could also be used.

12. Of course, on any view, the deduction implied by the Ruling was limited to the stated spot price - there was no suggestion that both the spot price and a full deduction for reduction in value of trading stock were available.

TAXATION RULING TR 92/5

13. Paragraphs 13 and 33 of the Ruling stated that deductions were not available for payments after 1 January 1991 of gold fees for loans drawn down before 1 January 1991. This view is not correct. Such payments of gold fees involve disposals of trading stock; the appropriate adjustment to trading stock on hand is allowed (subject to the transitional rules for the taxation of gold producers).
