OTHER RULING ON TOPIC IT 2114

PREAMBLE This office was asked recently to provide advice on the extent to which certain educational, social security and training payments made by the Commonwealth Government were liable to income tax.

RULING 2. The attached schedule lists the various payments and indicates the extent to which they are considered to represent assessable income. The schedule also indicates whether the payments are to be treated as separate net income for concessional rebate purposes.

3. Some of the education and training schemes sponsored by the Commonwealth Government provide for specific re-imbursement of expenditure on books, fares, equipment etc. The amounts re-imbursed are neither assessable income nor separate net income and have not been included in the schedule.

4. In some cases payments which are made to one person are shown on the schedule to be separate net income of another person. This generally occurs where a payment is made to a parent, guardian, etc. on behalf of a child and there is a requirement that the payment be applied solely for the maintenance, training, advancement etc. of the child in respect of whom it is granted. It is because of this requirement that payment is regarded as the separate net income of the child.

5. This ruling is based on the criteria for payment which exist at the present time. Any significant alteration in the criteria for payment may well affect the income tax position notified in the schedule.

6. The following abbreviations are used in the schedule:-

P Parent/Provider/Guardian

B Student/Beneficiary/Trainee

I Income according to ordinary concepts
