Miscellaneous Taxation Ruling

Miscellaneous taxes: application of the income tax and GST laws to immediate transfer farm-out arrangements

This Addendum is a public ruling for the purposes of the Taxation Administration Act 1953. It amends Miscellaneous Taxation Ruling MT 2012/1 to clarify that, as a result of the decision in Shell Energy Holdings Australia Limited v Commissioner of Taxation [2021] FCA 496, where applicable legislation states that a farmee cannot carry out activities on the relevant mining tenement or have a right to become the legal owner of an interest in the relevant mining tenement until requisite approvals have been obtained, a farmee cannot begin to hold an interest in the mining tenement for the purposes of Division 40 of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1997 until those approvals have been obtained.

MT 2012/1 is amended as follows:

- (b) Omit footnote 4.
- (c) After the paragraph, insert new paragraph 3A:

32. Paragraph 116

Omit the wording of the paragraph, including the quote; substitute:

Support for this view can be found in *Oram (Inspector of Taxes) v. Johnson*⁸⁰ where Walton J states (emphasis added):

So I return to basically to para 4(1)(b) 'the amount of any expenditure.' It seems to me that, although one does in general terms talk about expenditure of time and expenditure of effort, having regard particularly to the opening words of paragraph 4(1), where the expenditure is to be a "deduction," the primary matter which is thought of by the legislature in sub-sub-paragraph(b) is something which is passing out from the person who is making the expenditure. That will most normally and naturally be money, accordingly presenting no problems in calculation; but that will not necessarily be the case. I instance the case (it may be fanciful, but I think it is a possible one and tests the principle) of the taxpayer employing a bricklayer to do some casual bricklaying about the premises, the remuneration for the bricklayer being three bottles of whisky at the end of the week. It seems to me that that would be expenditure by the taxpayer, because out of his stock he would have to give something away to the person who was laying the bricks, and I do not think that that would present any real problems of valuation or other difficulty.

33. Paragraph 124

Omit the dot points; substitute:

- whether the farmee exercises, or has a right to exercise immediately, the subject matter of the interest in the mining tenement. That is, whether the farmee:

- has a right to explore the area covered by the mining tenement;
- becomes a joint venture participant whereby the joint venture operator acts on behalf of the farmee and the other participants in exploring the tenement through expending funds from the joint venture account contributed to by the farmee;
- becomes the joint venture operator thus acting on its own behalf as well as on behalf of other participants;
- whether the farmee has a right to become the legal owner of the interest in the mining tenement; or
- whether there are circumstances that would indicate that the farmee does not have a reasonable expectation of becoming the legal owner of the interest.

34. Paragraph 125

(a) Omit the wording of the paragraph; substitute:

In relation to the first consideration, if the applicable legislation or agreement provides that activities on the mining tenement cannot occur until the requisite approvals have been obtained, then the farmee cannot exercise, or have a right to exercise immediately, the subject matter of the interest in the mining tenement until those approvals have been obtained. This includes the application of any statutory provisions to the effect that the relevant transfer of title is of no force until it is approved and registered.^{84A}

(b) After the paragraph, insert new footnote 84A:

^{84A} Shell Energy Holdings Australia Limited v Commissioner of Taxation [2021] FCA 496 at [105–118], per Colvin J. Although this decision was appealed, this particular issue was not subject to appeal.

35. Paragraph 126
