| SUBJECT: | Amendment of an employer's fringe benefits tax assessment which requires an adjustment to a previously advised reportable fringe benefits amount |
| PURPOSE: | To advise the ATO's administrative practice where there is an understatement of the reportable fringe benefits amount in an employee's payment summary which is $195 or less. |

| TABLE OF CONTENTS | Paragraph |
|--------------------------|------------------|
| STATEMENT | 1 |
| EXPLANATION | 3 |

STATEMENT

- Where:
 - due to the fact that an employer's FBT assessment has been amended subsequent to the employer issuing payment summaries (or group certificates for the year ended 30 June 2000) to its employees for the relevant year; and
 - those payment summaries issued to employees have an understated reportable fringe benefits amount,the employer has not satisfied the requirements of paragraph 16-155(2)(b) of Schedule 1 of the Tax Administration Act 1953.
- Nevertheless, where the reportable fringe benefits amount understatement in an employee's payment summary is $195 or less, the Commissioner will accept that paragraph 16-155(2)(b) has been complied with, unless the Commissioner is of the view that the employer has deliberately understated the amount of fringe benefits provided to its employees.

EXPLANATION

3. As from 1 April 1999, employers are required to include on an employee's payment summary (or group certificate) the reportable fringe benefits amount that relates to the employee for the relevant year: see paragraph 16-155(2)(b).
4. However, having regard to the significant compliance costs that may be incurred by an employer to remedy the issue of payment summaries that do not include the correct reportable fringe benefits amount in the situation outlined, the Commissioner will accept that the employer has satisfied the requirements of paragraph 16-155(2)(b) if, as a result of such an inadvertent error, a payment summary understates an employee's reportable fringe benefits amount by $195 or less.
