

TD 92/135 - Income tax: capital gains : is the principal residence exemption relevant when the proceeds of sale of a dwelling are treated as income under ordinary concepts?

 This cover sheet is provided for information only. It does not form part of TD 92/135 - Income tax: capital gains : is the principal residence exemption relevant when the proceeds of sale of a dwelling are treated as income under ordinary concepts?

 This document has changed over time. This is a consolidated version of the ruling which was published on 30 July 1992

This Determination, to the extent that it is capable of being a 'public ruling' in terms of Part 4VAAA of the Taxation Administration Act 1953, is a public ruling for the purposes of that Part. Taxation Ruling TR 92/1 explains when a Determination is a public ruling and how it is binding on the Commissioner. Unless otherwise stated, the Determination applies to transactions entered into both before and after its date of issue.

Taxation Determination

Income tax : capital gains : is the principal residence exemption relevant when the proceeds of sale of a dwelling are treated as income under ordinary concepts?

1. No. In cases where the sale of a dwelling gives rise to income under subsection 25(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936 e.g. as part of a business or from an isolated profit-making transaction, that income remains assessable even if a principal residence exemption is available for CGT purposes.
2. The principal residence exemption is a capital gains tax exemption only and does not extend to exempt from tax ordinary profits or business income.

Example :

A builder constructs a spec home in which he and his family reside while construction proceeds on another spec home. Any profit on sale which gives rise to income is fully assessable to the builder even if a principal residence exemption is available for CGT purposes.
