 This cover sheet is provided for information only. It does not form part of TD 96/6 - Income tax: self assessment: can a person obtain a private ruling in terms of Part IVAA of the Taxation Administration Act 1953 (TAA) for a year of income after the year ended 30 June 1992, where the question covered in the private ruling concerns depreciation deductions allowable in respect of plant acquired and used, or installed ready for use, before 1 July 1992?

 This document has changed over time. This is a consolidated version of the ruling which was published on 17 January 1996

This Determination, to the extent that it is capable of being a 'public ruling' in terms of Part IVAAA of the Taxation Administration Act 1953, is a public ruling for the purposes of that Part. Taxation Ruling TR 92/1 explains when a Determination is a public ruling and how it is binding on the Commissioner. Unless otherwise stated, this Determination applies to years commencing both before and after its date of issue. However, this Determination does not apply to taxpayers to the extent that it conflicts with the terms of a settlement of a dispute agreed to before the date of issue of the Determination (see paragraphs 21 and 22 of Taxation Ruling TR 92/20).

Taxation Determination

Income tax: self assessment: can a person obtain a private ruling in terms of Part IVAA of the Taxation Administration Act 1953 (TAA) for a year of income after the year ended 30 June 1992, where the question covered in the private ruling concerns depreciation deductions allowable in respect of plant acquired and used, or installed ready for use, before 1 July 1992?

1. Sections 14ZAF and 14ZAG of the TAA provide that a person may apply for a ruling on the way in which a tax law or tax laws would apply in respect of a year of income in relation to an arrangement.
2. Section 13 of the Taxation Laws Amendment (Self Assessment) Act 1992 provides that an application under section 14ZAF or 14ZAG of the TAA must not relate to an arrangement that began to be carried out before 1 July 1992.
3. To determine whether a taxpayer is entitled to obtain a private ruling we need to identify the arrangement to which the ruling will relate and to ascertain if that arrangement commenced after 1 July 1992.
4. The definition of 'arrangement' in section 14ZAAA of the TAA is very broad and includes a part of an arrangement.
5. The ongoing use of plant for the purposes of gaining or producing assessable income is considered to be a series of arrangements each of which is capable of being treated as a separate arrangement. In resolving the substantive question in a private ruling application regarding depreciation, we would need to consider the circumstances under which an item of plant is used during the year of income to which the ruling relates. It is this set of circumstances that determines the way in which the tax law under consideration will apply to the rulee and that constitutes the arrangement on which a private ruling is given. The circumstances will, or may, change in each year of income and, consequently, if the private ruling application concerns the ongoing use of the plant, there can be a new arrangement in each year.
6. Even though the plant may have been acquired and used, or installed ready for use, before 1 July 1992, a private ruling in terms of Part IVAA of the TAA can be obtained because the arrangement, or part of the arrangement, concerning the ongoing use of the plant and on which the ruling is given will have commenced after that date.

7. However, the acquisition of a unit of property is also an arrangement. An application for a private ruling in respect of the way in which a tax law or tax laws will apply to some aspect arising from the acquisition, for example, the cost of the unit for depreciation purposes, or whether the unit of property is plant, will relate to an arrangement that takes place at the time of acquisition. If the acquisition took place before 1 July 1992, no private ruling could be given on a question involving the application of tax law to circumstances relevant only to the acquisition of the property.
